DESCRIPTION:

The largest volcano in Europe – symbol of nature’s ardour and an ancient and tenacious viniculture – is the place that brothers Diego and Alberto Cusumano have chosen together with their father Francesco for their new and impassioned challenge: to create wines that express the quality and character of a unique land.

After years of searching, in April 2013 a unique opportunity arose to acquire the first three ‘contrade’(districts) on the northern slopes of Etna. A continually evolving project that began with the reconstruction of the traditional dry stone walls of the terraces of Guardiola – the contrada (district) stunning beauty nurtures the underlying motivation and it’s an inspiration to the entire project: ALTA MORA.

TASTING NOTES:

“This shows blueberries but also dried leaves, rose petals, cedar and plenty of spices and herbs. The palate is fresh and vivacious with its medium body, vibrant acidity and a fruity, driven finish. Drink now.” October 20th, 2017
