At the beginning of the last century Carlo François bought the property and transformed it from a country residence to an agricultural firm. From then on, Castello di Querceto began to carve out for itself a significant role in the Italian and international wine panorama. In 1924, the estate founded the Chianti Classico Wine Consortium. In 1978 Carlo's nephew, Alessandro François and his wife Maria Antonietta Corsi decided to get involved in managing the company. This was the beginning of profound renovation, both structural and philosophical, with investments in both agriculture and transformation. Today Castello di Querceto's wines are known in fifty countries.
