DESCRIPTION:

The origins of the Damilano winery date back to over a century ago, when Giuseppe Borgogno, the great grandfather of the current owners, started to grow and make wine from his own grapes. This tradition was maintained by Giacomo Damilano, the founder's son-in-law, together with his children until it passed to his four grandchildren: Guido, Margherita, Paolo and Mario, who very attentively manage their upright style. The estate is widely appreciated thanks to the strictness and passion that accompany all of the winery's activities.

TASTING NOTES:

"Peach and floral aromas are augmented by lemon and earth flavors in this sappy white. Finishes with a white pepper accent." (Bruce Sanderson, web only - 2015)
