DESCRIPTION:

For three generations the Maculan family has been selecting and vinifying the best grapes in Breganze, an enchanting village at the foot of the Asiago high plains, where the extremely mild climate favors the cultivation of vines and olive trees.

The winery was founded in 1947 thanks to Giovanni Maculan's commitment and dedication, and then handed down to Fausto Maculan's care. With passion and determination, he led the winery to what it is today. In 2007 his daughters Angela and Maria Vittoria enthusiastically joined their father in managing the estate.

The Maculan estate consists of 40 hectares dedicated to vines and olive trees, and manages the cultivation of thirty selected growers. The winery is located in the historical centre of Breganze, where ancient traditions and state-of-the-art technology merge. This enables the Maculan family to produce beautiful wines, appreciated throughout the world.

TASTING NOTES:

"A fantastic wine that gives you a very authentic taste of the estate's top-tier wines, only this bottle costs a third of the price. Palazzotto is a pure expression of Cabernet Sauvignon (aged 12 months in both used and new barrique). The rich bouquet pulls back to reveal pressed blackberry, cherry preserves and a mixed bag of spices." (Monica Larner ~ December 2014) *2011 vintage, 2013 not yet rated
