DESCRIPTION:

The Collet family has, since 1792 and from generation to generation, consecrated themselves to their vines and vineyard. Jean Collet, son of the Chablis winemaker Marius, created the Domaine Jean Collet in 1952. In 1979, Gilles joined his father and their winemaking operation became Domaine Jean Collet et Fils. At this date, the area of the Domaine was 15 hectares. Romain, the son of Gilles, now represents the fourth generation of Collets in Chablis.

The winery and the cellar are located in the heart of the village of Chablis, where tradition and modernism live together, which represents the perfect picture of this family, proud of their winemaking know-how. Naturally, the Collet family have never hesitated to invest in their Domaine, and this practice continues. It is important that only the best bottles find their way to your table

TASTING NOTES:

“Oyster-shell minerality and a building aroma of stone fruits on the nose. Dense and sweet but with good cut and citricity giving shape and verve to the palate. A very successful village wine. “Stephen Tanzer ~ August 2015. *2014 vintage, 2015 not yet rated.
